

A promotional poster for the movie 'Wolfpack'. It features five soldiers in a combat environment, standing in front of a wall with peeling paint. The soldiers are dressed in military gear, including vests and camouflage pants. They are holding various types of assault rifles. The central figure is a man with a shaved head, wearing a green tank top and camouflage pants, looking intensely forward. To his left, another man in a white t-shirt and black vest aims his rifle. To his right, a woman in a green tank top and cap is shouting with her mouth open. In the foreground, a man in a camouflage shirt aims his rifle directly at the viewer. The overall tone is gritty and action-oriented.

They are the best of the best: elite special forces, highly qualified combat soldiers, carrying out secret government missions. Strong, brave and honest, they face deception and treachery, vice and evil, suffering and death. They risk their lives, never giving up or losing heart. Their objective is clear: to rescue those who need help, to live and, if need be, die in the line of duty. Their motto is always: "If not us, then who?" Is this just overwrought and excessive bombast? Not at all – it is what they do. All the action in the series is based on true events, and all the characters are based on real people.

«THE ISLE OF DEATH»

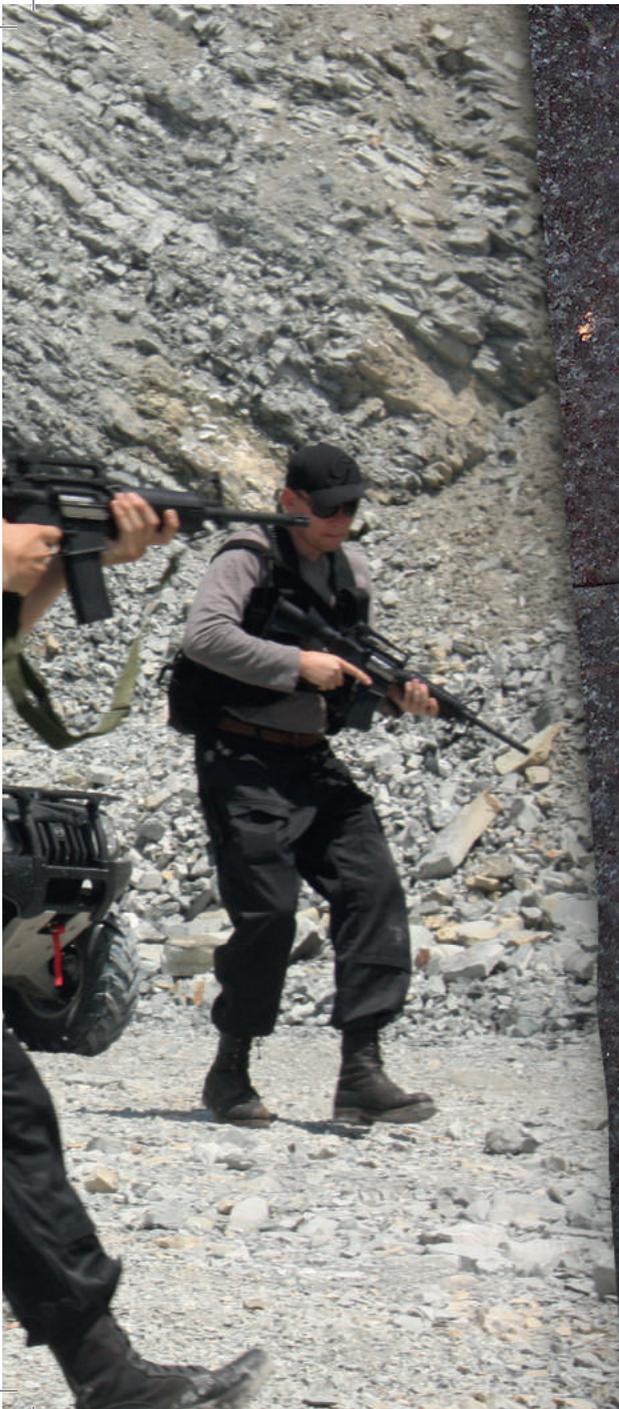

Episode 1

The hardened group of elite Russian soldiers secretly lands on a private island in a Chilean bay. There are reports that a radioactive waste dump is located there, disguised as a crushed stone quarry. A multinational corporation is conducting secret excavations and is hiding not only waste, but also slaves. The Wolfpack's primary mission is reconnaissance. During the operation, the group meets with fierce armed resistance, who fire without hesitation. In order to successfully complete the mission, two of the men have to surrender themselves to the enemy. However, little do they know how dangerous these 'captives' really are.

«A FAIR WIND»

The Wolfpack is assigned a mission to salvage a destroyed foreign intelligence agency cell and recover a secret device stolen by operatives from a NATO military base. The soldiers will have to outwit both Bulgarian and CIA counterintelligence operations in order to accomplish this. What appears to be an initially successful operation suddenly teeters on the brink of collapse. Owing to an incredible confluence of circumstances, Demon, who has fallen in love with a female counterintelligence agent tasked with keeping him under surveillance, has his cover blown. Through coordinated work, and an unconventional plan, the Wolfpack is able to foil the Bulgarian and American intelligence agencies and complete the mission. The secret device is safely transported back to Russia, and the cell operatives are rescued.

«THE ATLANTEAN PENDANT»

Episode 3

A Russian scientist's family disappears while on holiday. The kidnappers' ransom demand is an ancient Atlantean pendant. The Wolfpack lands at the scene of the incident with no weapons or special equipment, disguised as tourist divers. The group's mission is to locate and free the hostages. They have only five days for the operation. The local agent Alita identifies the most likely kidnapper, the leader of a criminal clan going by the name of Jaguar. Jaguar appears to be completely untouchable – no one has ever even seen him. However, this is not about to stop the detachment from stirring up the hornet's nest in order to solve the mystery, relying solely on their professionalism.

Episode 4

«THE EAST: A DELICATE MATTER»

Following upheaval in a friendly country, a new government has been installed which has failed to abide by the terms of a chemical weapons agreement signed with Russia. Russian intelligence agencies have information that explosive charges could fall into the hands of extremists. In order to avoid political conflict, the Wolfpack is sent on a mission to neutralise the terrorists and save the world from the potential threat. The Wolfpack get assistance on the ground from a former KGB agent. However, the situation is soon exacerbated by a completely unforeseen factor – betrayal. To make things worse, the head of the terrorist organisation and his personal guards have arrived in the republic. Nevertheless, despite the enormous difficulties faced, the Wolfpack is not about to let itself be defeated.
